

Ledgerly Inc. — Travel & Transport Expense Policy

Effective 2026-01-01 · Finance Department · Applies to all employees

1. Ground transportation

Employees may expense taxi, rideshare, and public transit fares incurred while traveling for business purposes. Commuting between an employee's home and their regular office is never reimbursable.

Rideshare and taxi fares under 500 TRY per trip do not require a receipt, but the expense must still state origin, destination, and business purpose in the notes field.

2. Air travel

Domestic flights must be booked in economy class. International flights longer than 6 hours may be booked in premium economy with a director's prior written approval.

Flight changes and cancellation fees are reimbursable only when the change was required by a schedule set by the company, such as a moved client meeting.

3. Lodging

Hotel stays are capped at 3500 TRY per night in Istanbul, Ankara, and Izmir, and 2200 TRY per night in all other domestic cities. International lodging caps follow the destination country's per-diem table maintained by Finance.

Minibar charges, spa services, and in-room entertainment are never reimbursable and must be settled by the employee directly with the hotel.

4. Approval thresholds

Any single travel expense exceeding 5000 TRY requires manager approval before booking. Expenses submitted without prior approval above this threshold may be rejected regardless of business justification.

Personal vehicle mileage is reimbursed at the standard rate published quarterly by Finance on the internal wiki; parking and tolls incurred during business travel are reimbursable with a receipt.